SCAM ALERT: Spring break getaway? When you are planning a trip, you may be tempted to jump on an offer for a great deal. Unfortunately, scammers sometimes hide behind those offers. Do some research: look up the name of travel company with “scam” to see what others have said. Don’t sign or pay until you have specific details – ask for the exact address of a hotel or resort and research it independently. Don’t pay with wire transfer, gift cards or cryptocurrency. Dishonest travel package promoters will ask you to pay in one of these ways, but that’s a sure sign of a scam!
